Join local artist Leah Lovett for a series of workshops for parents or carers with babies up to 12 months to explore drawing. Each session will introduce a range of materials through fun exercises designed to develop your observation and drawing skills whilst promoting the physical and perceptual development of your baby. Your own baby, and the relationship between you, will provide a basis for the drawings, as a focal point for techniques and ideas which you might want to take on to other subjects. Suitable for all levels, from beginners to experienced artists looking to experiment with new techniques.

The workshops are based on techniques developed by Leah with her own daughter whilst on maternity leave from the Slade, where she is currently researching a PhD with generous support from the AHRC.
